Dear Sen. Lamar Alexander (R TN):

Dear Sen. Bob Corker (R TN):

HOW DID CONGRESS FAIL TO DEMAND FOLLOW THROUGH ON VACCINE SAFETY STUDIES FROM HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES FOR 32 YEARS? THE NATION DEMANDS AN ANSWER!

In 1986, Congress provided vaccine manufacturers with immunity from lawsuits should a child be hurt from vaccination. This was called "The National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act."

Congress was to receive safety tests every two years from the Department of Health and Human Services, which completely blew it off!

A recent lawsuit proved that the Department of Health and Human Services has failed to do anything to protect the public's health when it comes to vaccines, yet provided plenty of other reports to support and promote vaccinations.

The Department has flown under the radar for 32 years but now is their day of reckoning along with the Congress that equally failed to demand the accounting.

The safety of our Nation's children is the National Health Federation's #1 priority. We demand an accounting from lawmakers and media! Why was this overlooked when other reports from HHS were received? What are you going to do to remedy decades of damage done to children and families from Health and Human Services' lack of reporting on vaccine safety and breaking their agreement to do so? How will you create accountability to the people you represent going forward?

Sincerely,

Dr. Dale Brown

Dear Dr. Brown,

Thank you for taking the time to contact my office about vaccinations. Your input is important to me, and I appreciate the time you took to share your thoughts.

The health of our nation and our world is of great concern to me, and vaccines have played an important role in severely reducing the incidence of infectious diseases like polio, hepatitis A and B and measles. I agree that vaccine safety is important, and I understand your concerns that federally mandated vaccinations would limit patient choice. Should legislation related to this issue come before the full Senate for a vote, I will certainly keep your thoughts in mind.

Thank you again for your letter. I hope you will continue to share your thoughts with me.

Sincerely,

Bob Corker
United States Senator
